So, what's the answer? I don't know the answer. I'm lucky if I know the question. Tuesday. Is that the answer? No, that's probably the question. How about Thursday? My watch said that. I guess it knows more than I do.

I know he knows one thing, anyway.

I think our creator likes us to lie down.

One thing about those wall-mounted signs - they give us more room to lie down.

Be careful not to hit your head on them. You never know what might happen in this two-dimensional paper space.

We seem to be able to imagine a third dimension and behave as if it exists, however.

What about time as a 4th dimension?

Although we were not created at the same time, we exist simultaneously and can only imagine time.

If we were one-dimensional we'd be mere points on a line.

What about the fifth dimension? They broke up.
